

RICHMOND UNITES FOR BONDS

Gigantic Parade, Mass Meeting Aid Harbor Program

SPEAKERS STRESS FACT THAT BOND ISSUE IS CHEAPEST INVESTMENT FOR RICHMOND PROSPERITY

The largest parade ever held in Richmond, band concerts, a mass meeting in Roosevelt auditorium—that was the city's gigantic celebration last night marking the height of the Harbor Bond election campaign.

LARGE AUDIENCE PRESENT

In the auditorium a large audience listened to arguments in favor of the issue that will make possible the development of the harbor, making it the equal of any on the Pacific Coast and thereby insuring the growth and prosperity of the city. Prior to the addresses, a musical program consisting of the famous Arion trio, well known to radio audiences of the Bay region and Mrs. Elsa Gilreath Caffee, soprano, accompanied by the trio was enjoyed by the audience.

MAYOR URGES SUPPORT

The meeting was presided over by J. F. Brooks, who introduced the speakers. Mayor Mattie Chandler in a brief talk asked the citizens not only to support the issue but to use their influence in getting out to vote on election day.

In the absence of City Attorney Thomas M. Carlson, who was scheduled to address the meeting, Brooks in a short talk gave his reasons for being in favor of the proposition.

"BOND ISSUE CHEAPEST"
"I have studied the proposition closely," he declared, "and looked into all angles and things I did not understand. As result, I offered my services to the committee in any way they could use them."

"To me, this bond issue is the cheapest thing that Richmond can do and save $50,000 a year. It is a way to save money. We get a harbor, save $50,000 a year, bring more industries to Richmond, more employees and build a larger city. If we develop this harbor along the lines planned, there are not enough lands in Richmond to bring all the industries that will want to locate here."

"MIGHTY FUTURE PREDICTED"
"One industry, no matter how large, is not sufficient to make a great city. We have Mr. Parr, we have the Ford Motor company and we will have other big industries if we pass the bonds to develop our harbor. I have talked with experts on finances and shipping and they all tell me that the largest ships that carry commerce to San Francisco not only have signified their intentions but are anxious to make Richmond a port of call."

HUGE PARADE FORMS
Prior to the mass meeting in the auditorium, a gigantic parade in which civic and fraternal organizations that have wholeheartedly endorsed the bond issue, joined formed at Twenty-third street and Macdonald avenue. This was the first parade in the history of Richmond to form on Macdonald avenue beyond the subway emblematic of the future Richmond—a larger and greater city.

1500 CARS PARADE
Led by Mayor Mattie Chandler, members of the city council and police department, riding in Ford cars as befitted the campaign slogan "Keep Faith With Henry Ford," and followed by the fire department and the municipal band, the caravan of approximately 1,500 cars paraded down through the business section, to the Point, where a brief concert was held, before returning to the Roosevelt auditorium.

MANY REPRESENTED
Noticed in the line of march were: Admiral Dewey camp Spanish War Veterans; Veterans of Foreign Wars; W. C. T. U. which entered a float of white bunting and green ferns; the W. O. M. L. California Poppy auxiliary; O. R. C.; Richmond Realtors, including Plate, Vaughn and Metz; Berg Bros., P. M. Sanford, Mrs. W. H. Sanford and others; the San Pablo Milk Producers drum corps; Richmond Rose, with a decorated float.

O. D. McElroy of Crockett was presented with a service badge commemorating his 15 years of steady service in the employ of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company last night when the social club of the 351st district of the company met in Redmen hall. McElroy received the badge from J. Flaherty, division long line superintendent.

McElroy began his work with the company as switchboard repairman, August 12, 1912, in Berkeley. He did this sort of work in Sacramento, Reno and Modesto up to 1915 when he began a five-year term as wire chief at Visalia. In 1921 he became test board man at San Jose, and in 1926 was put in charge of the Crockett repeating station, the position he now holds.

Talks were given before the telephone men last night by W. E. Sannis, an engineer of the general office in San Francisco; R. W. Bennett, supervisor of the employment department, and F. L. Burrell, division methods engineer.

It was also proposed that a weekly pass be sold to street car and train patrons for $1, the pass to carry unlimited transfer and riding privileges.

HEARING TO SEPT. 15
Clyde Seavy, state railroad commissioner, presiding, gave no indication of how the new schedule would be received. Hearings will be continued on September 15.

AFFECTS RICHMOND

Rumor Of Discovery Of Miss Doran Stirs Hope; Unconfirmed

NAVAL FORCES, RADIO, AIRPLANES FAIL IN METHODIC SEA HUNT FOR MISSING FLYERS

(By Universal Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, August 18.—The communication office of the 12th naval district at nine o'clock tonight received word from the naval station at Pearl Harbor to the effect that there was "absolutely no confirmation of the report that the Miss Doran plane had been found."

HOPES AROUSED

Privately owned broadcasting stations had announced earlier in the evening that the Miss Doran and its three occupants including Miss Mildred Doran schoolteacher of Flint, Michigan, had been located and all were safe.

Other stations made the definite announcement that the Miss Doran was safe on the island of Maui. This latter report was in circulation in Honolulu and officials were making every endeavor to confirm it.

NO AUTHENTIC REPORT

The reported point at which the plane is supposed to have been located is approximately 115 miles southeast of Honolulu and there are but meagre means of communication making it difficult to get authentic report.

The Federal Telegraph company at 9:10 tonight announced that they were continuing to send out wireless messages to all ships at sea to keep a lookout for the two planes and their crews.

Officials of the company said they had not received a confirming report of the rumor that the Miss Doran had been located.

With the world's greatest sea search progressing methodically tonight 61 hours had elapsed at midnight since the Golden Eagle flashed from sight off the Golden Gate in the Dole race to Hawaii. And at the same hour 59 and a half hours had passed since the big Buhl biplane Miss Doran raced forth from the Municipal Airport, enroute to Hawaii.

MYSTERY STILL

And at that hour the fate of the two planes carrying four men and a brave hearted girl—Miss Mildred Doran—was as much a mystery as it was last night when the far flung search for the two planes was instituted when they failed to finish in the air derby in the wake of the successful contestants, the planes Woolaroc and Aloha.

REWARDS OFFERED

From Honolulu came the news that James D. Dole, sponsor of the race, had offered rewards totaling $20,000 for information (Continued on Page Eight)

He is shown above with his wife, who was forbidden to accompany him on the projected Dole flight, because she was not yet 21.

$175,500 Asked by Hanna for Land Taken for State Highway

MARTINEZ, August 18.—Judgments aggregating $175,500 for land taken by the state in reconstruction of the state highway between the Carquinez Straits bridge and Torrey and for building an approach to the span are asked by the Crockett Land and Cattle company and Thomas R. Hanna, its president, in answers filed in Superior court today to condemnation suits filed by the state highway commission in behalf of the state more than six months ago. The highway and bridge approach have already been built and are in use.

For one parcel 310 by 175 feet at the span approach the cattle company asks judgment of $100,000. On another parcel, following the route of the highway from the span approach to the Great Western Power company's property, $35,000 is asked by the corporation. Hanna, answering as an individual, asks an additional $40,500 for a third strip taken for the highway between Torrey and the power company's holdings.

The answers charge that the acquisition by the state of these properties, taken under court permission before trial of the suit and on which bond was required, has served to destroy means of ingress and egress to other adjoining properties of the cattle firm and Hanna.

The cattle company's answer discloses that the parcel at the span approach, now a part of the highway, was leased by Hanna in April, 1926, to M. F. Cooper as a service station site for a period of ten years. The rental, according to the answer, was to be one half cent per gasoline sold, not to exceed $500 monthly, thus making the potential lease revenue for the ten years $60,000.

The answers were filed through Attorney Courtney Moore of San Francisco.

Chaplin Permitted To Visit Children

(By Universal Service)
LOS ANGELES, August 17.—Charles Chaplin probably will visit his two small children here as frequently as possible, his local attorney, Lloyd Wright, said today. The visits, Wright continued, will be kept secret if possible, as Chaplin is averse to any publicity on such matters.

It was reported today that Chaplin last night saw his two boys for the first time since he left for New York eight months ago, following the filing of a divorce action by his wife, Lita Grey Chaplin.

Chaplin is continuing his policy of silence regarding the divorce case, which is scheduled to come before Judge Guerin next Monday. He conferred with his attorneys again today.

Attorneys on both sides had nothing to say on rumors of a settlement.

DOOLITTLE CHILD HAS APPENDIX REMOVED

Katherine Doolittle, twelve-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Doolittle, 287 Eleventh street, underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Cottage hospital yesterday. She is reported as doing nicely.

J. M. Bourland will erect a cottage, two garages, and a wood shed on the south side of Nevins avenue, between San Pablo avenue and Key boulevard, at a cost of $4500.

The Richmond Builders exchange gave enthusiastic support to the harbor bonds at its noon luncheon in exchange hall yesterday. E. B. Bull explained the necessity of the bond issue and the advantage which would result to the city. Executive Secretary L. C. Dexter was selected delegate to the state convention in Santa Cruz, September 3, 4 and 5. Arrangements were made to send a large delegation to the conclave.

WISE BUYING OF FEED AND FUEL

Buying right is as important to the business man as selling at a profit. In fact he cannot sell at a profit if he does not buy to advantage. Buying right is equally important to the family. The time to buy feed, for instance, is when prices are lowest. The time to buy fuel during warm weather, because others usually wait until it is cold before they order their fuel and when there is little or no market for a commodity the price declines. The place to buy feed and fuel is listed in the Buyers Guide on the classified page.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

This is the birthday of Lloyd Hamilton of the famous "Ham and Bud" series of comedies in the motion pictures. Mr. Hamilton was born in Oakland, Cal. He entered the motion pictures in 1914 and rapidly rose to fame as a comedian. He was born when the Sun and Moon were both in Leo, which gave him determination and will power and was an excellent augury for his success.

Saturn was just passing into Leo and in good terms with Neptune, the planet of the silver sheet. Venus, the planet of love and Uranus were all making their rays in Libra, an auspicious position, a keen sense of humor, an original turn of mind. This explains his success as a comedian and as these planets were in trine aspect to Neptune, it was that the silent drama is his best medium of expression. Physically Leo, unless afflicted, gives a commanding presence, staidness of bearing and rather a deliberate way of walking and speaking. The successful Leonian always makes his presence felt, for there is something about him that attracts attention. He walks as though conscious of his own power and authority.

But with all his dignity, he is generous and warm hearted and usually very anxious to help others. Leo looks you squarely in the face. He is direct in both speech and manner.

Many of those born about the middle of August like to take the initiative in business ventures and to begin new enterprises. They are both fortunate and successful. Some of them or course have more difficulty to contend with than others, but all may be successful in the sphere of life in which they are placed. During the next twelve months, they may expect, but are unlikely to escape a few heart-burnings.

How To Earn Money!

Thanks to your advice, I have been very successful in my little venture of making and selling homemade candy. What would you suggest in the way of candies for children—something that I can sell for a penny or so? OPAL.

Make lollipops, of course. Do you know a child who doesn't thrill at the very suggestion of lollipops? And the plain lump colored candy on the stick will be even more alluring if it is shaped as a butterfly, fish, rabbit or chicken. This can be done by pouring the lollipop syrup into little molds. One cup of sugar, one fourth cup light corn syrup, three fourths cup of water, eight drops of oil of cinnamon and a bit of red coloring will make enough lollipops to give you a good start. Use wooden skewers for the large ones, and toothpicks for small ones.

Our corner grocer has consented to my placing a few ples and cakes in his window every day and will sell them for me on a small commission. And now I am having trouble with the meringues on my custards and pies. They seem tough and shriveled when baked. What do you think is the trouble? MARY J. T.

Too little sugar will give a meringue which is tough and shriveled when baked. It will not be as fluffy as one with more sugar and will not be as attractive in color. Four tablespoons of powdered sugar to one egg white will give a nice fluffy meringue. Then, too, your meringue can be spoiled by poor baking. The right temperature is of the utmost importance. If I were you I would leave off the meringues during warm weather.

Paris is showing a decided preference for satin for dinner and dance frocks. Many of the important couturiers are discarded chiffons in favor of satin, featuring dainty sleeveless frocks in black and all the new autumn colors.

What Your FACE TELLS

©c. 1927- by Betty Morrison PSYD.

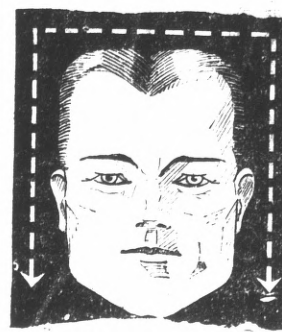

HERE IS THE WHY OF THE L-SQUARE MAN:

Let me introduce to you the motive type man, the man of action, the person in whom the muscle and bone system is most largely developed and is distinguished by the squareness of head and body.

There are two rather distinct types, both of which are classified as motive types—first, the tall, raw bone, angular, broad shouldered, square faced, Roosevelt build; second, the short, stocky, square shouldered, deep-chested Gen. Grant build. Physical exercise to the motive man is not only a duty but a joy. He delights in the use of his muscles. He can feel tears and fashion the timbers himself to build a bridge or a house. He does not call a boy to bring his needs, but goes after them himself.

Square headed, square shouldered, square handed, square power and a practical quality of thought. He dares to do and does do big things. Nature has fashioned him for a large and useful life, and he is the man constantly reminding himself "What I have done is nothing to what I shall do." This type is a most dependable type—seldom, if ever, "goes to sleep at the switch."

He knows that the pearl gatherer dives deep, and he is ever ready to make the big jump and enjoys the plunge. There is none of the "know it all" about him. He is eager to learn from any one, ever seeking more knowledge about his business. He is as quick to grasp a fact as to deal death to a mosquito that settles near.

GOOD JUDGMENT

The motive man has both poise and good judgment and a keen mechanical sense. He is discreet, conscientious and deliberate in action. He wants a square deal and will give one to the other fellow. As it is natural to use those parts of the body that are most developed, the motive type, being developed in bone and muscle, is a lover of physical exercise, the open air and physical contact. Outdoor work is recreation to him—indoor work torture.

He likes speed, power and durability. He should work at such work as engineering, manufacturing, production man, baseball playing, and prize fighting. Such men are capable of success because he dares to be a leader. If you are going tiger hunting, take him along, for as a companion he is brave and cautious, and he gets what he goes after.

Tomorrow—Mental Type.

You Need Pearly Teeth! Here's How To Get Them!

By LADY BEATRICE GREY

A great deal of harm can be done the teeth by pastes and powders that contain acids and gritty substances that injure the enamel. Unless you are sure of your pastes and powders, use pure, white, unperfumed soap and prepared chalk. It is efficient, though not very pleasant to the taste.

If one would have teeth like pearls, extremes in temperature in food and drink should be avoided. Ices should not be followed by hot coffee nor hot soup by ice water. Hot foods are never good for the teeth. It is an accepted fact that people who habitually eat hot, soft foods have teeth that decay early. Fine white flours, hot biscuits, etc., are also bad for the teeth. The people of northern Europe who live mainly on coarse, black bread have fine, strong teeth and dentistry is practically unknown among them.

One doesn't need to be told that the finest spot of decay should have the prompt attention of a skilled dentist. Apropos the care of the teeth, sometimes a reform in diet is advisable—the substitution of gluten and whole wheat breads and the cereal foods for white breads and sweets. It has been said that practically no one today has a normally moist mouth and that this abnormal condition is rendering ordinary methods useless against insidious decay. The reason for this, it is explained, is that modern food, too soft, too quickly swallowed, does not afford the mouth glands sufficient exercise, and gradually their alkaline fluids cease to flow.

Not only from the standpoint of good looks but also from the standpoint of good health is the importance of caring for the teeth to be stressed, for, according to modern science, many ills trace their origin to neglected, abscessed teeth and diseased gums.

Questions concerning beauty building through physical culture will receive the personal attention of Lady Grey, beauty culturist, and should be signed by the writer's full name and address, which will not be used without permission. Address her, care of this newspaper.

JUVENILE DISCORD

Tommy had received strict instructions to ask no questions. Tommy tried hard to obey. But childish curiosity won, and he suddenly and loudly inquired: "Mama, do Mr. and Mrs. Brown still play in the band? Will they play us something when tea is over?"

"Why, Tommy, Mr. and Mrs. Brown don't play in the band. Why do you ask such a question?" "Because," said the terror in disappointed tones, "I heard you tell papa that Mr. Brown played second fiddle to his wife!"

There was music after tea and Tommy was the drum.

When a Man Loves

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
John Barrymore in "WHEN A MAN LOVES" is a Warner Bros. Picture.

SYNOPSIS
Fabien, good and handsome youth of France, trains for the priesthood; but meets and loves Manon Lescart, beautiful orphan, who is coveted by hideous Count Ravoire. Fabien saves her and carries her off to Paris. Circumstances force her to surrender to Ravoire. She rejoins Fabien, and they live so extravagantly that Fabien is forced to capitulate a genius for cards. The King plays Fabien at cards for Manon, accuses him of cheating, gives Manon to Ravoire. After a terrible fight, Manon is carried away; Fabien finds her brother wounded.

"Yes, a generous last thrust from—the Comte." Lescart smiled ironically with his hand pressed against his breast.

Fabien turned livid with rage. Cursing insanely he rushed to the door that Lescart had indicated and pulled it open. The room was deserted. Manon had been taken away!

The sound of hostile voices put Fabien on his guard. With all possible speed he bolted the door and dashed across the room to fasten the one through which he had come. It was no sooner done than Richelieu and the Comte, backed by numerous guards, demanded admittance.

Fabien ignored them with a feeling of contemptuous hatred. He knelt at Lescart's side and began unfastening the wounded man's coat. "Don't—waste time—with me! Find—Manon. It is—impossible to—choke—death!" For a moment their hands met in a firm grasp.

"Yes," agreed Tiberge, "It is astonishing that with your inherent good qualities and training you could have abandoned yourself to vice."

"You don't understand," Fabien resented the word "vice," "I love Manon. My affection, esteem, passion—what you will—is the greatest and purest thing that has ever come into my life. It is not sinful! It is not wrong! It is just deplorable that circumstances have been against us."

"Then cease trying to combat them and return to a regular and respectable life." Tiberge lamented, his obduracy and could not agree that Manon, or any woman for that matter, was worth the sacrifices and hardships that Fabien had endured on her account.

An hour later Fabien left Tiberge, for what proved to be the last time, and began plodding his weary and lonely way toward the Prison of the Magdalen.

He wanted to arrive by dawn and explain to the Provost of Police, at the first possible moment, that it was all a horrible mistake for Manon to have been sent there.

Tormenting remembrances of his fatal and unhappy love flashed across Fabien's mind like the gloom of the night. One seemed just as vague and temporary as the other and he had no power to control either. Manon's absence—the dread of never beholding her again—the mystery of her fate and the heartache he had caused his family, all formed melancholy thoughts in his overwrought brain.

Manon in the most infamous prison in the world! He had heard criminal stories of the way the women were treated and it seemed impossible for his adorable mistress to be a degraded inmate of the drab place along with the lowliest dregs of Parisian womanhood.

Cost what it might Fabien was so bent upon rescuing Manon that he decided to set fire to the prison if no other mode of escape presented itself.

The sun was just coming up beyond the grim forbidding walls of the prison when Fabien entered the cold barren hall and said to the guard on duty at the desk, "I wish to see the Provost of Police—the man who is in authority regarding Mademoiselle Lescart." "You are early," observed the guard. "However, the Provost is here. He has been superintending the deportation. Just a moment and I will see if he is through." After what seemed to be an endless wait the Provost's secretary came out from a private office and motioned Fabien to enter.

It was a grim place. The rugged stone walls and tall, narrow iron barred windows made it feel dark and cold. The floor was bare, and the only furnishings were a long desk and two stiff chairs. After his eyes became accustomed to the darkness—the room was lighted only by a few faint strands from the rising sun that shone through the barred windows—Fabien discerned a man in the shadows. As soon as the door was closed he emerged into the light and faced Fabien with a mocking smile. He was the Comte de Ravoire! (To be continued.)

"LAST OUTLAW" HOLDS BOARDS AT CALIFORNIA

Gary Cooper, whose first picture, "Arizona Bound," recently brought him to the screen as Paramount's newest star, is said to have more than fulfilled expectations in his second vehicle, which arrives at the California theater today to open West Coast Theatres' Greater Movie Season.

It is "The Last Outlaw," a vivid, slashing, outdoor melodrama of villainy, heroism and romance on a Texas cattle range. Cooper's rugged build and dynamic personality fit him ideally for his role as a hard-riding deputy sheriff.

In "The Last Outlaw" Cooper is surrounded by a cast which even surpasses that of "Arizona Bound." He rides Flash, the wonder horse; arrests Jack Luden, Paramount picture school graduate; makes love to Betty Jewel; befriends Billy Butts, the child actor, who is cast as a homeless little bum; and fights with Herbert Prior and Jim Corey, the villains.

"The Last Outlaw" was directed by Arthur Rosson, who has wielded the megaphone on western pictures starring Tom Mix, Douglas Fairbanks, Hoot Gibson and other famous players. Rosson declares that Cooper will be one of the screen's biggest stars within a year and a half.

The picture was photographed in just such a locale as that in which the story is laid. Magnificent mountain scenery is a feature of the production, which comes to a stirring climax in a spectacular cattle stampede.

Other features on the same program include "The Non-Stop Bride," an Imperial comedy; "Ko Ko Gets Excited," International News; and Larry Canelo at the organ.

Iowa Syrian Colony Think Missing Soldier May Still Be Alive

(By Universal Service)

SIoux CITY, Iowa, August 17.—Although thirteen years have passed since Moses Ibel, Syrian, began to serve in the Syrian army in the World War, his relatives here believe that he is still alive, and will return some day.

In 1914 Ibel, compelled to serve with the Syrian troops, deserted, escaped back home, was arrested, marched into service again, and not heard of since.

The hopes of the relatives, including a brother and cousin, are based on a story which appeared a few days ago in a New York Syrian newspaper, telling of the escape of nineteen Syrians who were captured by English troops during the war with 21,000 others and sent to India.

Of the nineteen named by the newspaper, one of the men's first names was given as Moses. Nothing more. He was said to be from Gibgannon, Syria.

In this latest Fox film, Tom Mix, as Tom Mills, a ranchman, acts as a dispatch bearer during the World War in France, where he has gone as a captain of a troop of cowboys. Here he finds, however, that he must change from horse to motorcycle and some of the most gripping scenes ever filmed show Tom and his buddies flying over shell torn roads with bursting shrapnel tearing the scenery to pieces all around them.

Then, there is the first in the wrecked village, the capture of a machine gun nest and rescue by Tom of his buddy under fire.

"The Canyon of Light," however, is not a World War story. The incident in Flanders field is a well motivated episode that explains why, with the best element away fighting in the trenches, desperadoes are able to terrorize the western community where Tom and his cowboys have their home.

Dorothy Dwan has the feminine lead in this fine production and Ralph Sipperly, William Walling, Barry Norton, Carl Miller and other screen favorites have important roles.

Other film features include "Smith's Baby," a roaring comedy; and "Hitting the Trail," a screen novelty.

You are looking at history

You are looking at history

The hawker of yesterday who cried his wares in the public places is now but vaguely remembered—swallowed up in yesterday's seven thousand years.

Today the news of goods for sale becomes an indelible record of human achievement.

You may take, for instance, the history of transportation in America and read that extraordinary tale of progress in an unbroken series of advertisements in the files of newspapers—advertisements that inform us of each progressive step from the sailings of sloops out of Boston for Philadelphia in the days of Franklin, to the flight of the Air Mail from Mitchel Field to San Francisco in our own day.

You may read the startling story of the revolution in household economy and the emancipation of the American wife and home-builder in the advertisements of the last twenty-five years.

But in today's papers you find an even more amazing record—the advertisements of radio outfits, automobile equipment, electrical appliances, foodstuffs, clothing, medicines—things which have raised our civilization to a plane higher than the world has ever known. Do you quite realize that in these advertisements you are examining a contemporary contribution to the recorded history of civilization?

It takes more than money to advertise
It takes honesty

Bond Enthusiasm Aroused By Mass Meeting And Big Parade; Speakers Tell Of Harbor Plans

has been made. "His letter is as follows: Oakland, California, August 16th, 1927. Mr. Fred D. Parr, president, Parr Terminal Company, 1 Drumm Street, San Francisco, California. Dear Sir:

We understand that a statement has been made to the effect that the Parr Terminal Company is not responsible for the locating of the Ford Motor Company in the city of Richmond based on the contention that we have paid a commission to other parties because the negotiations were handled by them.

This is to advise you that we, as owners of the property from which a portion was sold to the Ford Motor Company, are fully aware of the facts regarding the sale of the 102 acre tract to your company and from which you sold a portion to the Ford people and that all of the negotiations were handled by you and from all information we have we feel you personally are responsible for locating this industry in the city of Richmond.

At the time you first approached us for an option on this property we were not and had not been dealing with any one for over two years. However, prior to this time an effort was made by others to dispose of these holdings and it is true we have compensated them for their efforts, but this was not in connection with the actual sale of the property to the Ford Motor Company.

Yours very truly, BAY COUNTIES LAND CO. B. T. A. Crellin, President.

"The letter from Mr. Crellin is conclusive proof that no one in Richmond is entitled to a commission, nor received a commission, in connection with the sale of the land to the Ford Motor Company.

"On the return of Mr. Scott and myself to Richmond, in December, 1926, we exhibited the executed agreement of purchase between the Parr Terminal Company, as seller, and Ford Motor Company, as purchaser, which agreement was signed by Edsell B. Ford, as president of the Ford Motor Company, and by myself, as president of the Parr Terminal Company.

"All of the dealings with the Ford Motor Company were, in the final analysis, handled by Mr. J. Crawford, assistant to the president of the Ford Motor Company, and myself, without any agents, brokers, or other parties whatsoever, except as the various operating traffic, engineering, and other departments were consulted for information.

"This would seem to be positive proof that no broker aided in consummating this transaction. I understand that property was offered to them in every seaport city of any consequence from San Diego to Seattle.

"The closing of the Ford deal not only depended upon securing the property at a right price, but the Ford Motor Company, stated that they were not in the real estate business, and they would not take any location unless they were guaranteed that the channels would be dredged and maintained to an adequate width and depth, that the railroad tracks would be constructed to serve their plant, together with the necessary car storage yard; that the lands would be filled to a grade satisfactory to them; that the streets would be constructed connecting the heart of the city with their plant and that contracts covering all of these things so as to guarantee their accomplishment should be entered into, in form satisfactory to them, within a specified time. We complied with their every requirement, and while we do not ask for any credit for what has been accomplished, we do object to others indicating that we were only an incident in connection with the locating of the Ford Motor Company at Richmond."

DE LAP IS SPEAKER

Another of the speakers on the program was Attorney T. H. DeLap, who spoke of the great opportunity now facing Richmond; Congressman Charles F. Curry's offer to help in securing a survey for the harbor ending with the government maintaining the harbor to a depth of thirty feet instead of twenty-four as at present, and the location of industries here.

T. S. CO-OPERATION

"If the people of Richmond defeat this bond issue, this getting may never again come as it is now," he declared. "Not only will the government order a survey, but it will match the work of the city dollar for dollar in dredging the harbor and maintain the harbor at that depth ever after. But we must have the money to show the government that we are able to do our part. The bond issue will give us the money. The government is not interested in commerce, and when we can prove to it that we need a deeper harbor it will give us every aid."

LABOR URGES ACTION

F. T. McDonald, speaking for labor, urged the city to develop its harbor.

"Richmond is safeguarded by the greatest, landlocked harbor in the world," he said. "Back of you is the great back country of 120,000,000 people. Labor is producing more than this country can consume. The eyes of the country are looking to the Orient, South America and Central America to dispose of the American surplus and the places from where to get its raw materials. Commerce is looking for strategic points so it can market its goods at less cost than its competitors.

IMPROVEMENT NECESSARY

"You must build your harbor. As one of the great body that builds bridges, buildings and cities, we expect Richmond to do her part in making a harbor here so that the products of labor can pass on to the markets of the world. The building trades and other unions are unanimously in favor of these harbor bonds."

ON PROGRAM

Captain E. H. Howard, of the Richmond fire department, accompanied by Miss Virginia Vickery, sang several numbers. Members of the city council, chamber of commerce, committee of one-hundred and fraternal organizations were present on the speakers' platform.

Letters have been received at the harbor bond campaign headquarters from Congressman Charles F. Curry of this district and Congressman Albert E. Carter of Oakland, who is a member of the rivers and harbors committee of congress, in which both urge the favorable action of voters on the harbor bond issue.

Congressman Curry has done more for Richmond harbor than any other man, and has secured federal aid time after time. His letter follows:

Sacramento, Calif., August 6, 1927. Harbor Bonds Campaign Committee, Richmond, Calif. Gentlemen: I am in receipt of your favor of the 2nd instant, and I sincerely appreciate your invitation to address a harbor bonds mass meeting in Richmond the evening of August 18.

The Richmond harbor project is a joint federal and city project, and unless the city has funds available for its one-half of the dredging of the channel of the harbor the federal funds which I have been securing for the project will not be available. Also, the city of Richmond must provide the wharves and terminal facilities to care for the commerce brought in through the channel to the harbor. I understand that the original bond issue has been exhausted, and that the bonds on which the people of Richmond are to vote this fall will provide sufficient funds to complete the city's share of the project. While bonds should not be voted for indiscriminately and without regard to the purpose for which the funds derived from them are to be used, there are certain objects for which bond issues are justifiable, and the Richmond harbor is one of these. The development of the harbor facilities will result in increase in commerce and a corresponding increase in business, and property values in the city of Richmond. The increase in prosperity of the city should more than cover the cost of the bond issue.

When I was given a luncheon in Richmond some few weeks ago, I spoke at length on the Richmond harbor bond issue, and endorsed the movement. With kindest regards and best wishes, I remain, Sincerely yours, C. F. CURRY.

Congressman Carter's letter follows:

Oakland, Calif., August 9, 1927. Harbor Bonds Campaign Committee, New Hotel Carquinez, Richmond, Calif. Gentlemen: I regret very much that I am not able to accept your very kind invitation to address a mass meeting in your city on Thursday, August 18, in reference to harbor development in general and your bond campaign particularly.

As you know, for many years I have been very much interested in port development work. I believe that the proper development of the port facilities around San Francisco Bay will do more to build up this section of the state than any work that can be undertaken by the people here.

Soon after my election to congress I was appointed a member of the Rivers and Harbors committee of the House. Through my work on that committee I have been brought very closely in touch with the harbor work throughout the United States. Consequently, I have had an opportunity to see the value of this work. The committee that I am on passes upon all harbor projects that are asking assistance of the federal government. The fact that a community through a bond issue or otherwise, shows faith in its harbor project is a matter that is always considered by the committee in determining the amount of federal aid that a particular project shall have. With the natural possibilities that your city possesses, I consider that an investment by your community in harbor development work will pay greater returns than any other investment that you could possibly make.

Regretting that it will be impossible for me to be present, and wishing you every success in this campaign, I remain, Sincerely yours, ALBERT E. CARTER.

Tragedies Follow O'Higgins Murder

BY PATRICIA HOEY (By Universal Service)

DUBLIN, August 18.—The murder of Kevin O'Higgins has been followed by two other painful tragedies here. The unfortunate women in the gate lodge of St. Sauri, Mrs. Moran, who rushed out when she heard the shots and was so horrified when she recognized the dying minister that she collapsed, has now lost her reason and been taken to an asylum. She it was who staggered back to her lodge and brought out a pillow and towels to try and help the wounded man. Mrs. Moran has never recovered from the shocking sight of the bloodstained figure and remains. She leaves a family to bewail her loss.

Gunmen To Get Sanity Test

(By Universal Service) CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—Jack McGurn, reputed Lieutenant of Cesare Al Capone, and gunman was rushed to the Psychopathic hospital for examination today in the first attempt of Chief of Detectives William O'Connor to test his theory that all criminals are insane.

"You can't arrest me, I'm free under a writ of habeas corpus," McGurn shouted. But the cops took him in anyway.

He had to wait outside the hospital ward while the psychopaths examined another who was picked up yesterday. With him waited Virgil Lewis, who wore one shoe a pair of pants and an overcoat.

Gunmen when charged with murder have found it comparatively easy to be declared insane and sent to the asylum instead of the gallows. The authorities believe it may be possible to have him declared insane before they have committed any serious crime.

Prison Doors Open For "Man Sent Up For Nothing"

(By Universal Service)

SACRAMENTO, August 18. James S. Willis, 27, was a free man today when San Quentin prison opened its doors to him after he had been pardoned by Governor C. C. Young for a series of crimes to which he pleaded guilty, but which it was found later he hadn't committed. And in Willis' cell today at San Quentin was Vincent Bohac, 23, who confessed guilt to the same crimes recently in Detroit, Michigan.

Willis pleaded guilty to a series of holdups and was serving two terms, one to fourteen years and another five years to life. Willis has never been able to explain how he happened to confess guilt to crimes he did not commit. Bohac, after being brought back to Sacramento, led officers to a spot where he had buried loot and turned over a pistol to the police with which he had shot a gas station proprietor.

American Drama Given Praise

TOKYO, Aug. 18.—Americans like their "mellodrama" and their comedy but are very little for other forms of dramatic literature. America has barely made a start in the drama, but nevertheless the most advanced of any branch of American literature.

These are the conclusions of Prof. J. Wong Quincey, dean of Western Literature at the Tsing Hua College, Peking, who paid a brief visit to Japan on his way back to China after spending some time in the United States studying American literature, particularly the drama, at Yale University.

"The American public likes only melodrama and comedy," Prof. Quincey asserted.

"American comedy, while it provokes a good deal of laughter, does not have the satire which is the basis of true comedy.

"No continual drama ever has been really popular in America. Several impressionistic plays have been tried in New York recently, but they are commercial failures. The theatre this season shows that 50 per cent of the plays running are drama."

GREAT CARD IS READY TONIGHT AT EL CERRITO

By far the best looking card ever offered will be on tap tonight at El Cerrito for the boxing fan of this section.

The Myer-Dampier main at the last show looked good and timed out as predicted. The last fight with Myer and Cline in the night looks even better. Why? Well Pete has a job on his hands. He is facing a man that has never been knocked out.

Four hundred battles has Cline had. In over ten years he has met and fought the best. Yes, he has lost but at no time has he ever taken any kind of a count. The fan here has seen Meyer win most of his fights on knockouts. And Pete has done it over the best.

That means such stars as George Engel (twice), Frankie Bray, George McCormick, and just at the last show sensationally knocked Dampier so cold that it was quite a time before Dampier came out of his coma. What effect can Meyer make on such a hard foe as Cline? Will Pete do something that thus far Cline has evaded in not being kayoed?

Wildcat O'Brien of Boston has his claws well sharpened and he promises the fans that they will see Mr. Vahey extended in such manner at Tim has not been put to as yet. O'Brien and Vahey know each other. They fought a draw last year and so badly were they lacerated that both were unable to fight for some time.

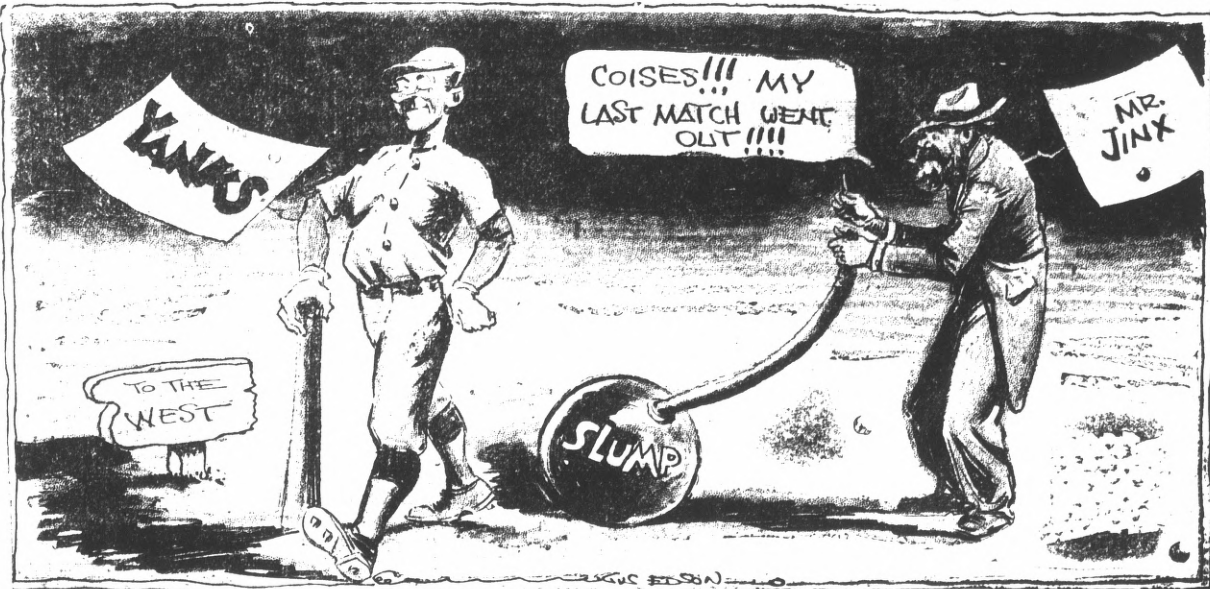

The above two bouts will be the features, but the balance of the card and the boys taking part will battle so hard that it will probably be every bit as good as the main events. Cliff Hotteger and Mel Shaver are sure to do some tall slugging. Neither is clever and as they are both terrific hitters one will probably be sent to sleep.

Mickey Brown is another that will be a big hit if he wins over Young Farrell. It will be the chance that all youngsters such as Brown strive for all their lives. Johnny Hanlon and Tiger Kid Carter open the show. Benny Wagner will be on hand to settle who is the winner.

Canzoneri Kayos Filipino In Three Minutes

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Tony Canzoneri, of Brooklyn, aspirant to the featherweight title, demonstrated his fitness when he knocked out Pete Sarmiento, of the Philippines, in 2 minutes and 51 seconds of the first round of the scheduled 10 round bout at Hoboken Field.

The Philippine started the round by jumping all over Tony at the going. Tony was not hurt, however, and he waited his chance. Pete jumped all over the ring, never giving Tony a chance to get set. Near the end of the round Tony nailed Pete on the chin and the Philippine went into a neutral corner against the ropes. Tony followed him in and sent him down for the full count with a terrific right to the chin and left to the stomach.

Ed Sullivan's SPORT WHIRL

SPANISH SPORTSMANSHIP HIGH GRADE

If Paulino's American appearance failed in every other particular, it at least proved that the Spanish race is not lacking in sporting sentiment.

I never realized that there were so many Spaniards in New York city until Paulino first fought here.

Every time he goes to the post, the arena is loaded with enthusiastic countrymen.

Before each round, as if working under a pre-arranged signal, Paulino's rooters rise from their chairs and cheer in chorus, waving papers and hats as a symbol of encouragement to him. From the galleries, they throw shredded newspapers and programs.

However, you won't find many of the Spanish fight fans seated in the galleries. Tex Rickard tells me that they insist on the highest priced ringsides and pay any amount asked so long as they are close enough to watch every expression of their champion.

They are extremely fair in their judgment, too, although you would imagine that a race burdened with plenty of emotion would become violent in its prejudices.

This is not the case. I noticed two Spanish gentlemen who were seated behind me at one Paulino fight. They were inclined to give his opponent the benefit of the doubt whenever a question arose, although they rooted wholeheartedly for Uzcudun.

FOREIGN HEAVIES ARE THROW-UPS

The two conspicuous heavyweights sent to this country from Latin countries, Firpo, and Paulino, have in common strength and endurance.

Both are muscled far in excess of any American fighters of the modern era.

You can look through the entire breed of current American heavyweights and you will look in vain for the Firpo or Paulino type.

Johnny Grosso, the good Mount Vernon Italian heavyweight, bears some resemblance in physique. He is the only one I can call to mind.

Perhaps some one skilled in the evolution of races can explain this. Dempsey, Sharkey, Delaney—three typical American fighting types—are built for speed. They have streamer lines, Mr. Atkinson of the Automotive staff might say.

The foreign fighters, either those direct from the old world, or those a generation removed, are built for comfort and endurance, rather than speed.

Firpo, Paulino, Berlenbach, Grosso, Heeney, are a few examples of this fact.

I doubt if the ring will ever again see a gladiator who filled the eye so satisfactorily as Firpo, the Wild Bull of the Pampas.

If I had ever been called upon to fight him I would have insisted upon a pair of blinders. Dempsey who confessed that he was afraid to look up at the towering Willard at Toledo, kept his eyes away from Firpo as he awaited the bell.

"I knew that if I look at him long enough," explained Dempsey, "Kearns would have had to force me out of my corner." Even Dempsey, whose main asset has always been his courage, was awed by the sheer physical dimensions of Loui, dot dope from the pampas.

he ordered that a tractor be obtained immediately to pull it out. He dedicated the new Richard's flying field, and then participated in a parade to the business district where he was officially welcomed. He will fly to Wichita, Kans., tomorrow.

"I'll Win" Says Dempsey, To Begin Work In Three Days

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—Jack Dempsey, who has suddenly found himself the most popular fighter of this or any other generation, will not begin intensive training for his championship bout with Gene Tunney in Chicago, September 22, for another three or four days, he announced today following his arrival here from Salt Lake.

Jack appears to be in better condition right now than he has been for several years. He is only carrying four pounds of excess weight and stated today that he wished he was nine pounds over his fighting weight. He pointed out that a week of heavy work in camp would bring him down to his normal fighting weight, 136 pounds. He asserted that in the event that he was extremely hot during the training period he might scale as low as 129 pounds for Tunney.

Mrs. Dempsey is not in good health and Jack thought it advisable to spare her the noise and confusion that accompanies a well-known party and decided at the last minute to quit the train at Rock Park station where they board waiting automobiles which conveyed them immediately to their hotel.

"I am going to win. I never felt better in my life and with Gene Tunney to help win me into shape I know that I can beat Tunney. He gave me a licking at Philadelphia, I'll admit that, but wait until this baby starts throwing gloves this time."

Asked how he expected to beat Tunney, Jack smiled and said: "Well, I won't let him win. When reminded that most of his victories had been knockouts, he said: "Well, I won't let him win. I will win by a knockout but I will be in there trying. I am going to fight him the same way I did body and keep right on firing away until something happens. You know what I mean."

HEART TROUBLE

Marvelously Relieved

While visiting her daughter here in Oakland, Mrs. W. H. Morton of Stockton was in such great pain from heart trouble that it affected her left hand. She could neither walk nor rest with the slightest comfort. All the physicians whom she consulted expressed the opinion that she had not more than ten days to live. She truly seemed to be at the point of death when she took her first package of the Fong Wan Herb Co.

At home, and that night she had the first rest after many weeks of terrible suffering. After four weeks of the Fong Wan Herb Co. treatment, she was able to return to her home in Stockton. From that city she has sent the following testimonial to the Fong Wan Herb Co.

OWES HER LIFE TO FONG WAN HERBS
Stockton, Cal., March 21, 1927.
To the Fong Wan Herb Co., I have been a sufferer with valvular trouble of the heart for some time. I became so ill that my doctors, who were many, gave me but a week or ten days to live.

I decided to try the Fong Wan Herb Co. and the amazing result was that I was able to walk into their office after taking the herbs one week. I have now taken them four weeks and I not only have a good heart, but have also been helped in other ailments.

I cannot speak too highly of the Fong Wan Herb Co. as I owe my life to them. I am very grateful to Fong Wan for his kindness.

VANZETTI AND SACCO TO KNOW OUTCOME TODAY

BY EARL L. SHAUH
(By Universal Service)

BOSTON, August 18.—Sacco and Vanzetti will know their fate tomorrow.

At 9 o'clock tomorrow morning the four justices of the supreme court, who have been considering the case, will hand down their decision. It is within their power to order a new trial.

If the decision is adverse to the two anarchists who were found guilty of murdering a paymaster and his guard seven years ago, the men will be executed immediately after midnight next Tuesday morning unless their attorneys get the case into the federal courts.

Preparations have been made to carry it to the federal courts if necessary as soon as the state supreme court hands down its decision. There is no certainty, however, that they will get any encouragement there.

Arthur D. Hill, chief counsel for the defense, today filed a supplementary brief with the state supreme court. In it he answered some of the contentions of Attorney General Reading. He dealt at length on the alleged prejudice of Judge Webster Thayer, who tried Sacco and Vanzetti and sentenced them to death.

Boston is still under heavy guard to prevent further bombings. Detectives, state troopers and federal secret service men are searching for the men who bombed the home of Lewis McHardy a few days ago.

The theft today of fifteen sticks of dynamite from a garage caused fear of another outrage in the near future. The authorities believe if they can find the thieves they will have the gang who bombed McHardy's house.

Monkey Wrench Thrown Into Big Paris Divorce Mill

BY C. F. BERTELLI
(By Universal Service)

PARIS, August 18.—A monkey wrench has been thrown into the hitherto smoothly running machinery of the Paris divorce mill. On representations made by the state department to the French foreign office the minister of justice sent out a severe order to all divorce judges in France that American divorces in this country must be made more difficult to obtain.

Today it is no longer to come to Paris for a fortnight vacation at a smart hotel and return to America with marital chains legally severed. The renting of a furnished apartment, no matter how luxurious, also is no longer considered as a legal adoption of a French domicile.

Should the present orders continue to be enforced to the letter even after the court recess, a great boom in French real estate is expected early in the autumn owing to the great demand by Americans aspiring to French divorces, for property that will give them legal French domicile and therefore the right to appeal to French jurisdiction.

Already several realtors have received cables from America for October options, when the courts resume business. Thus will rich Americans be able to take advantage of French divorce laws by investing in town or country houses, while similar advantages will be denied to the hundreds of couples who are only able to afford a couple of thousands of dollars, which is the average price of a modest divorce here.

Purchase of country homes is likely to be the favorite means chosen by wealthy divorce seekers, inasmuch as it is practically a guarantee of utter secrecy, as no reports ever reach Paris from the small out of the way country courts, while their decrees are as valid as those rendered by the central courts of Paris.

Rumor On Planes Is Unconfirmed

clearing up the mystery of the air and sea. This was the only definite development beyond the careful and painstaking search being carried on from the Pacific Coast to Hawaii by the greatest squadron of naval and mercantile ships ever assembled on a humanitarian mission.

RUMORS FLY
Rumors flew fast and often in Hawaii only to be exploded by tireless investigation.

The result of the 24 hour search was NOTHING.

Radio, airplanes, naval flotilla, mercantile marine failed to develop a clue.

SAMPANS IN SEARCH
It was estimated that a total of 120 Japanese Sampans had joined in the search up to noon. Many are equipped for a week or even days search and carry wireless.

Rumor after rumor sprang up today that trace of the flyers had been found only to be exploded as unfounded upon investigation.

RECEPTION POSTPONED
All plans for public receptions in honor of the successful flyers have been postponed.

The great fear of William F. Malloska, backer of the Miss Doran, is that the plane caught fire, he revealed today.

Refusing to give up hope, he is haggardly keeping vigil. He declared the Miss Doran was especially built to float with aluminum tanks which could be quickly emptied of their gasoline.

RADIO DISPLAYED
Malloska exhibited a crumpled radiogram from the occupants of the missing plane just before it started assuring him that it was okay for the start.

Martin Jensen, winner of second place, in the race brought his plane the Aloha from Wheeler field to Honolulu at 1 p. m. this afternoon.

DOLE COMMENTS
In commenting on the flight, James D. Dole, sponsor of the race asserted that it was plainly shown that planes participating in long ocean voyages should be equipped with radio sending devices.

"The chances taken by Lindbergh and three of the four planes which started from Oakland, all without sending apparatus, is too hazardous," he said. "What is required and what must be invented is a suitable sending device, capable of being used if a plane is forced down on the water."

GLORIA, COUNT DENY DIVORCE
(By Universal Service)
CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—Professing undying love, the Count De La Falaise, husband of Gloria Swanson, cinema queen, passed through Chicago today on his way from Hollywood to Paris.

"Divorce? Estrangement?" he laughed.

He related how at Newton, Kansas, he missed his train through his love for his bride. He said he stepped off of the train to send her a telegram. The train pulled out without them.

"Imagine my despair," he said. "There I was without money, without a hat, without cigarettes—in Kansas. However I took the next train and caught my train at Emporia, which had been held up by floods."

He announced he planned to see the Dempsey-Tunney fight here next month if he has to take a freighter back.

COOLIDGE AND WAR VETERAN SPOIL PROGRAM

HOT SPRINGS, S. D. Aug. 18.—President Coolidge and an eighty-five year old war veteran who knew his father, today smashed into life a program which the good people of this beautiful mountain resort had been weeks in the making.

The President, Mrs. Coolidge and son, John, arrived here aboard their special train promptly on the dot. Cheering thousands gave them welcome. The band played "People waved flags. They cheered an open limousine and motored through the principal streets to the Battle Mountain armistice, there to inspect how the National Government provides for its afflicted victims of the last three wars.

The President strolled through the wards, stopping here and there to say a word of greeting to those who had borne the brunt of the battle. Mrs. Coolidge beamed her most gracious smile upon them. John modestly held himself in the distance. That was all according to schedule and they boarded their cars again, to motor to the Hot Springs Golf Club for lunch and later to visit the South Dakota soldiers home.

"Stop," said the President, suddenly. "Didn't I hear something about a veteran from my old home town?"

So, the auto cavalcade motored back to the sanitarium while excited attendants put in a hurry call for the "feller from Plymouth, Vt."

H. G. Day, the aged and serried veteran of the Union Army, was surprised beyond expression when the President walked back in and singled him out.

"Pull up a chair beside me," west.
